28% of Dehradun's population lives in the slums!

In the bustling city of Dehradun, Uttarakhand, rapid urbanization and migration resulted in the emergence of numerous slum communities. These communities, comprising over 160,000 inhabitants, primarily consist of migrant laborers who have settled in the city seeking opportunities for education, healthcare, and employment.

Unfortunately, the lack of affordable housing has forced them to reside in makeshift shanties along the riverbeds, devoid of basic amenities such as electricity, running water, and sanitation.

Since 2009, Aasraa Trust has been working at the grassroots to address the pressing needs of marginalized children and youth living in these slum communities. We focus on providing education and skills training to these vulnerable children, who often come from first-generation learner families. Many of these children resort to begging or rag-picking to supplement their family incomes.

We also support differently-abled children, orphaned and abused children, and those from remote hill regions with limited access to schools. We identify and prepare out-of-school children for mainstream education and aim to break the poverty cycle by empowering these children through education and bridging the gaps in their knowledge.

Our Approach

Education is NOT ENOUGH.

Aasraa goes beyond academics and recognizes the importance of holistic development. We understand that education alone is insufficient to break the cycle of poverty. Therefore, Aasraa extends its support to encompass various essential areas of a child's life. This includes addressing nutritional needs, ensuring access to healthcare services, and providing safe shelter homes for children who lack stable living conditions.

- Our Medical Department ensures that our children in need have access to 24x7 medical services.
- Our Centralized Kitchen serves approximately 1000 meals every day to all our children.
- Our Shelters are home to over 200 boys and girls studying in schools and pursuing higher education.
- Our Skills Programs are imparting employable vocational skills to over 145 youth.

By taking this comprehensive approach, Aasraa aims to create an enabling environment where children can thrive academically, physically, and emotionally. The organization's efforts extend beyond basic education, preparing these children for the transition to higher studies and skills training. By equipping them with relevant skills and knowledge, Aasraa empowers them to pursue sustainable livelihoods and break free from the limitations imposed by their socio-economic backgrounds.

Our Programs at a Glance

A stepped progression to empowerment.

Building Back Stronger

Navigating the Road to Recovery from the Covid-19 Pandemic

With a steadfast commitment to our mission, we swiftly adapted our programs and interventions to ensure the continued well-being and education of the vulnerable children amidst the crisis.

During the pandemic, we transitioned to innovative remote learning methods under our initiative called The Silver Lining Project, ensuring that children could continue their education even while confined to their homes. Mobile phones were distributed to children and through the use of technology and online platforms, our teachers conducted virtual classes, ensuring that children remained in education through the worldwide lockdowns.

We also extended support beyond education! We ensured the provision of essential supplies, including nutritious meals/rations and hygiene and medical kits to families in need. Additionally, the teams worked tirelessly to offer emotional and mental health support to both the children and their families, understanding the impact of the pandemic on their overall well-being.

These crucial steps not only mitigated the immediate impact of the crisis but also prepared the children for a brighter future beyond the pandemic.

Today, our 4000+ children are back in schools!

As we move towards recovery, Aasraa Trust continues to chart its path forward, determined to rebuild and strengthen its programs.

Recovery

Tackling the learning gap through Wings of Doon & Tinkering Lab

Aasraa responded to the learning gap created due to the two-years marked by the pandemic through two impactful interventions: Wings of Doon, an after-school remedial education initiative and the Tinkering Lab, a creative space for children.

These initiatives focus on bridging the educational divide and nurturing the holistic development of children enrolled in government partner schools of Aasraa.

Wings of Doon aims to enhance conceptual understanding and critical thinking skills, providing support to students who have fallen behind due to the disruptions caused by COVID-19. Meanwhile, the Tinkering Lab fosters scientific temper by providing hands-on learning experiences, encouraging curiosity, innovation, and problem-solving abilities. These interventions play a vital role in equipping children with the necessary skills to thrive academically and enhance & accelerate their overall growth.
